Jitasa Continues Expansion as a Solutions Provider to Nonprofits

Jitasa, certified B-Corp serving nonprofits, expands by acquiring two software companies

Boise, ID - May, 11, 2016---Today, Jitasa [Boise, Idaho], a company specializing in accounting services for nonprofits, announced the integration of companies K12 Enterprise, and AVF Consulting into their growing business.

AVF Consulting is focused entirely on the nonprofit sector, and commits itself to bringing state of the art technology to the nonprofit community. They have been deploying accounting and business management solutions to hundreds of clients for the last 25 years. CEO Andrew Fass believes the merger of companies will improve the sector. He stated, “We believe that our focus in bringing exceptional technology to the non-for-profit sector fits perfectly with Jitasa’s large footprint in providing bookkeeping and accounting services to the same sector. This expansion is perfect framework to better serve our clients with an increased array of products and services.”

K12 Enterprise is dedicated to advancing public school districts with financial and HR solutions designed to streamline operations and enhance efficiencies. K12 CEO Jeremy Fass spoke about the merger stating, “The Jitasa team has extensive expertise in the delivery of professional services and we have extensive expertise in the development, deployment and support of technology products. Together we will be able to accelerate the growth of our businesses so that we can offer even better products and services to our clients.” Both companies adhere to a philosophy of doing business that aligns perfectly to the Jitasa mission of serving others.

Jitasa is the first and largest national accounting and bookkeeping services provider dedicated solely to the nonprofit industry. Their name means “the spirit of serving others,” and with this expansion they now serve the nonprofit community with office locations in Boise, Idaho; Baltimore, Maryland; Richmond, Virginia; Sarajevo, Bosnia and Bangkok, Thailand. This expansion will translate to hiring opportunities in many of the locations above.

When asked of the merger, Jitasa Founder and CEO Jeff Russell stated, “We exist to serve nonprofits. Combining these organizations will enable us to provide an even better array of services to nonprofits, with access to new technology resources in the sector; our combined team is looking forward to continuing to support the not-for-profit sector and the missions they serve.”

Moving forward all three companies, as well as previous acquisition Dynamic Shared Services will fall under the header “The Jitasa Group” and can be found at www.jitasagroup.com.
